

Efficiencies in Health Care Accreditation (EHA) Advisory Services

Are you looking to gain efficiencies and enhance your accreditation, regulatory and policy management programs? JCR experts can assist your organization to systematically identify and analyze performance improvement and accreditation readiness, including policy and procedure maintenance challenges, and utilize tools to streamline these activities.

Your organization may select to work on all dimensions of accreditation (performance improvement, accreditation readiness and policy and procedure maintenance) or just one or two. Our experts will work with your organization to help you develop the implementation of custom solutions for ongoing success.

Phased Approach

Our four-phase program approach can be completed in up to 24 months but is also scalable based on the amount of assistance and guidance that is requested in each phase:

- Phase 1: Assessment based on evidence-based criteria
- Phase 2: Action planning/Recommendations for improvement
- Phase 3: Capability building to implement improvements
- Phase 4: Implementation and spread via coaching, feedback and monitoring

Program Benefits

Key goals of this advisory service include:

- Establishing an effective and efficient regulatory and accreditation readiness program by implementing best practices
- Improving efficacy of the performance improvement department by streamlining the number of quality indicators that your organization is collecting, tracking, displaying, and presenting to the governing body
- Developing an efficient governing body report based on the tools available within the organization
- Improving the efficacy of the organization's policies and procedure program by recommending strategic changes to the management, including developing a list of policies and procedures that:
 - Are not required and should be eliminated
 - Are overly complex and need simplification
 - Are the most frequently cited by The Joint Commission and should be reviewed for practice compliance
